BIG THINGS DOING AT MILITARY CAMP

STATE SPENDING MUCH ON IMPROVEMENTS

Illinois' Regt. Here July 7-21; Mich. Div. July 23-Aug. 20

The State Military board is spending about $50,000 at the Hanson State Military reservation this spring in the way of added buildings and improvements to others. Also improvements will be made at the Flying field. There will be 28 new mess halls and kitchens.

An entirely new camp equipment in buildings will be constructed for the 182d Field artillery and new mess halls for the 119th Field artillery. There will be two new mess halls for the 107th Medical regiment.

New concrete floors will be built into all the kitchens in the camp and concrete and fire brick for all stove bases. And the largest range will undergo a lot of improvement.

New buildings for flying field. Two new mess halls and kitchens will be built at the flying field north of town for the Air squadron. Also a lot of work is being done on the grounds in the way of heavy rolling and filling in any holes. With these improvements Grayling will have one of the finest flying fields in the State.

Contracts have already been let for this work and the work will be pushed rapidly to completion. Besides the above there will be a lot of miscellaneous repairs and improvements that will be handled by the regular camp crew.

202d F. A. Coming July 7

The 202d Central Artillery of Chicago will open summer camp here Saturday, July 7th and remain until July 21st. This is an anti-aircraft organization and is recognized as being the best organization of its kind among the National Guard of America. They held camp here last year and were so favorably impressed that they are coming again this year.

Several practices were very spectacular and different from any shown to visitors to camp, both during the day and at night. Airplanes are used extensively in their practice work, and many machines were in the air daily during the training of that regiment.

Mich. Troops Coming July 23

Michigan National guard will begin summer schedule of training July 23rd and continue to August 20th. This will mean about four weeks of camp this summer, instead of three as has been the usual custom. The 1st squadron of Cavalry is to be the first in camp, arriving July 23rd and will continue to August 6th. This fine troop of Cavalry that made such a spectacular showing during the last two training periods appears to have the camp alone for about a week, according to the schedule given out by Col. LeRoy Pearson.

On August 2 the 182d Field Artillery will arrive and remain for two weeks, leaving on the 14th. This is Col. Pickett's famous Million Dollar organization and probably the best in the guard.

The 32d Division Headquarters Infantry regiment, the 107th Medical regiment, special troops and the 32d Division Air service will arrive August 4th and remain until August 18th. The 119th Field artillery will arrive August 6 and remain to the 20th.

MANY NEW MEMBERS JOIN M. T. ASSOCIATION

(By E. M. T. Service)

Concrete evidences of the growing interest in and co-operation with the East Michigan Tourist association activities are reflected in the new members which are being added to the association roster. Last month the membership increased to $2,500. This did not include the membership renewals. Marked increases have been made every month since the new year began.

It is said that Great Britain put out her latest naval propositions as little friends, the song birds. Judging from the reaction in the American press they don't feel so good.

School Notes

Editors: Isbrand Harder, Ellen Speck, Corinne Sheldon.

The Woman's Club offered prizes to the two High School students who wrote the best essays on "Better Homes." Eleanor Gorman and Kathryn Mallinger were the prize winners, having submitted the best essays.

Miss Adams—Charles, where is the capital of Italy?

Charles W.—Jerusalem.

Stanley S.—"I sure told that girl what I thought of her."

Elmer F.—"And what did she say?"

Stanley—"She said she loved me too."

Ellen G.—The man I marry must be grave as a lion, but not forward, handsome as a Greek God, but not conceited; wise as Solomon, but meek as a lamb; a man who is kind to every woman, but who loves only one.

Alva S.—By jove! How lucky we met!

Jerry H.—You raised your hat to that girl who passed. You don't know her do you?

Shirley S.—No, but my brother does and this is his hat.

Marie S.—I don't think window cleaners have such dangerous jobs after that.

Marie L.—Why?

Marie L.—I heard of an editor who dropped eleven stories into a basket.

Kendall—"Clara, if you really like this skunk, I'm going to give it to you."

Clara—"All out and out gift?"

Kendall—"Absolutely, there's no strings to it."

Dorothy H.—He has a Henry Ford stepped out of the train he straightened out his six feet and smiled.

"Better Homes"

—Eleanor Gorman

Did you ever stop to think what a wonderful place home is? We spend a greater part of our life at home. It is man's only possession. The best thing he can call his own. A home is a home whether it be a thirty room mansion or a two room shack. Better homes mean a more progressive movement of America.

A clean, tidy home insures cheerfulness, cheerfulness insures good health which cannot possibly exist in a disorderly home. It is much better to see a woman singing happily about her work with all the time saving devices installed in her realm of the kitchen, having her hundreds of things and making her life not one of a drudge but a pleasure. On the other hand picture a woman in a soiled house dress, her hair is down and uncombed, shouting at her children in a shrill voice. Her home is a dirty heap and a combination rubbish heap and debris pile. There is no sign of poverty about the place, but the main factor is that it is unclean! A wealthy person may have beautiful furniture and portraits but if it isn't clean it isn't of any value. A poor man may have little furniture but it is clean and a home, a benefit to his community.

The outside of the home is just as important as the inside. We can't all have velvet lawns, marble fountains and hedges, but we can have clean yards. Rake and burn the dead leaves and rubbish, bury the tin cans and see if your yard can't look like your millionaire neighbor's. Plant flowers along your walks. If we have the right kind of devices in the home surely we can spend some time in flowers. Let us not have just "Better Homes Week" but have it all the year. And when some friend drops in we can proudly say this is my home, and we need give no excuses as to how it looks.

"Better Homes"

—Kathryn Mallinger

Because this is Better Homes week I will write about "Better Homes For Birds." We should not only think of our own homes but the homes of our little friends, the song birds.

Have you ever heard the birds sing on a cool morning, as the sun was just rising above the tree tops?

A. & P. CO. BUYS PETERSEN GROCERY

TO OCCUPY PETERSEN BLDG. NOW BEING REMODELED

Hans Petersen has completed a transaction with the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. for the rental of his store building, the final papers for the lease being signed Tuesday evening.

The Petersen building that is now undergoing remodeling will be occupied by the new owners The A. & P. Co. stock will be moved into the new quarters just as soon as the work of remodeling is finished.

Mr. Petersen had nearly completed putting a new brick front with plate glass windows, and also extensive widening of the building. Since the transaction further recommended changes by the new occupants will be made. The upper story of the building will be taken down and the structure made into a square front on story building. The door that now occupies the new part will be replaced with a plate glass window.

With the changes to the front and rearrangement of the interior, this is going to be a very attractive store building. Mr. Petersen hasn't fully decided just what he will do, but he doesn't he will keep busy at something.

The building now being occupied by the Petersen grocery will be occupied by the Kraus Estate Hardware, Mr. and Mrs. Barnett, owners of the hardware, having recently purchased it from Thos. Cassidy.

The Petersen stock will be closed out as fast as possible. Goods are being offered for sale at big reduction in prices.

If you have you will know why I think we should have more bird houses. Bird houses form a protection against cats, dogs, hawks, and even children who are attracted by the pretty colors of the eggs, or the birds themselves. This frightens the parent birds away of causing other bird catastrophes.

A little wooden box can be made into a pretty bird house, just cut a hole in one side of the box, big enough for the bird to slip through, put a roof on the box and perch on which the birds can rest. Then paint it with some of Dad's left-over paint and set it up on a pole or nail it to the house. A more experienced carpenter could build a house with a porch or several apartments so that more than one family can live under the same roof.

You must remember, though, to clean the bird houses after the birds have left and before they return from the south because birds do not like to use the same nests for more than one summer.

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR VISITS GRAYLING

Mr. Robert R. Pointer of West Branch was in the city Monday doing some missionary work in the interest of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of governor.

Mr. Pointer says that he feels that the people haven't been fully satisfied with the Green administration. Mr. Pointer isn't as well known in this part of the state as he is in Wayne county. His interests have largely been in thoroughbred stock raising, and is the owner of the fine stock farm just north of West Branch on M-76. He formerly resided in Dearborn.

It was four years ago that there was a big demand that Henry Ford head an independent ticket for the presidency. At the final moment Mr. Ford concluded that he would not enter as a candidate. A Ford party had already been organized and Mr. Pointer was induced to accept the nomination in place of Mr. Ford.

Those who know Mr. Pointer can not help but appreciate his high qualities of statesmanship. He is loved to gather material for a life-long force that will inform on public matters and so, too, in the Christian home, we are always ready to defend the principles of right and justice. There is little probability that the Republican field will be limited to two candidates, but if it should we believe Gov. Green would find in Mr. Pointer a worthy opponent.

Extend Time for Clean-up

The State Health Department at Lansing has issued very strict orders about cleaning up. Their orders must be complied with.

On account of considerable sickness the time for cleaning up will be extended to the week ending May 12th. By that time please have your yards free from rubbish and filth.

H. PETERSEN, Village President.

colonels, and generals, and heroes, so long will we have boys in our houses thinking of war in terms of glory and wonder.

A man may wear a uniform, and be spotlessly groomed, but that is no indication of the loftiness of his character. Returned men readily recall other men in the service who were anything but heroes in their eyes. The military man is entitled to the full credit for his services, but the uniform does not guarantee character or patriotism. War, at times, (especially in our stage of civilization) may be necessary in self-defense, but you cannot idealize "actual" war except by lying about it. The American home is faced with a tremendous task in his field of upbreathing at the present time.

The place held by the American home will always be the dearest spot in our hearts, and we must build our long and hard struggle about the innumerable things that make up the home. We must build our home about the innumerable things that make up the home. We must build our home about the innumerable things that make up the home.

This is a day when the woman is being thought of as a "housewife" and being man's equal. Democracy is being urged for the home as well as the state and more and more we are getting. And that is that of looking aware that a husband and wife can upon children as "ends" in themselves, each other, and yet not be in a sense, partners and friends the state. This is a banner which they do not feel at ease to think of them as cannon fodder. So talk over with the other without too is it dangerous to think of child-rearing as a business. It is a business to accomplish certain ends. A child is worth more than dollar and cents. Contentment of democracy in the home. A child is more than an investment in the interests of home discipline. A child is a child in the Children be obedient to your parents. Kingdom of God. A growing person are told. And yet there is a way of life of wondrous worth in himself, of obtaining obedience in the home. A bit of heaven's everlastingness, aside from the perpetual use of the A cherry orchard at Traverse City, where you ever known a home more lovely its own apart from the luscious than that home where the mother cherries which we expect to gather was a girl with her daughters and next August. ## SENIOR CLASS PLAY FRIDAY, MAY 4

The Senior class play, "The House of a Thousand Thrills," that is to be given Friday, May 4th, is something different in a high school play. It is a mystery drama, the scene of which takes place in a Long Island country home, owned by the wealthy Mrs. Carleton.

The plot of the story centers around a very valuable necklace. The presence of a prowling burglar, who is a smooth young swindler, and an unscrupulous Hindu woman among the cast, does not prevent the development of two charming love stories, interwoven with the major threads of the plot.

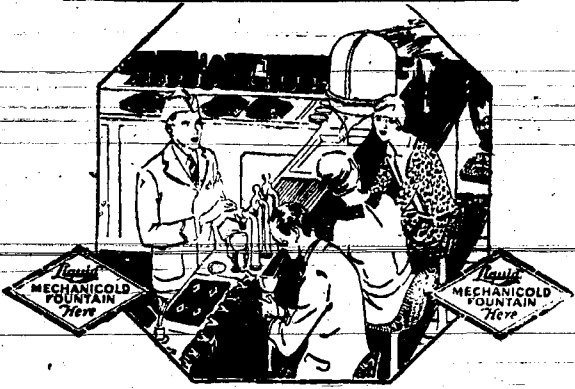

Cast of Characters are as follows:

Mrs. Rachel Carleton—"The wealthy eccentric old mistress of Carleton House"—Hazel Hunter.

One of the relatives of Fay Murphy of Frederic, who was reported in this paper last week to have been one of the boys to break into cottages at Otsego Lake, takes exception to the article because it wasn't Otsego Lake where the cottages were located but at a small lake near Waters. Also says that Fay wasn't with the Short boy when he drank moonshine that caused the latter's death. She is right, we have no doubt, for it is learned that Fay was in school the day the boys had moonshine, and it is understood that it was Maynard Arnold instead. From what we have been able to learn Fay Murphy isn't a bad boy but seems to have had a start in that direction which, if continued, would probably lead him into serious difficulty. He already has, according to what our sheriff and his deputy at Frederic say he has admitted, enough to answer for. All three of these boys are but children, and, after careful reflection, we are sorry we even mentioned the matter in print. However they are still young and this should be a warning to them that they cannot insult the peace and dignity of the people of the state and expect they are not going to be punished. Whether there were 15 suits or one suit among the plunder the boys stole, the offense is just as great. We hope the boys will understand this and will from now on realize that the respect of honest people is of far greater value than all the rewards that can possibly come from dishonesty and crookedness.

The old adage that "chickens come home to roost" still holds good, except that they don't come home as early at night as they used to.

Then there is another advantage in short hair. Since the women go to visiting the barber shops the barbers don't get to do all the talking.

We wouldn't think the laundry workers in Italy would be for Mussolini just think of all those black shirts.

Man So Nervous Gets Sore When Spoken To

"It actually irritated me to have anyone talk to me, I was so nervous," Vinol ended this and I feel wonderful now. —Wm. Fahy.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphorus, cod liver phosphate, etc. The very first bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphorus, etc. give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. Mac & Oldroyd, Druggists.

The Alumni orchestra motored to Lewiston Saturday and played for a dance there that night. A number of Grayling's young folk accompanied them and enjoyed a good time.

TAKING TO WONDERING

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

THE king was in a sad way, so the legend ran, as klugs have often been, and are still today, if reports are to be believed. There was a great oak tree that grew against the palace wall that was so big and so thick in its branches that it shut out all the sunlight from the king's palace. The king had offered many, many dollars to anyone who would cut down the huge tree and let the sunlight into the great castle in which he lived, but no one had been able to do it for as soon as ever one chip of the oak's trunk flew off under the stroke of the ax two more grew in its stead.

And this was not all. The king had dug a well which was to hold water for the whole year, but although all his neighbors had wells, when they came to sink a well for the king whose palace stood high above the valley, they had gone down only a few inches before they struck an impenetrable rock.

But the king had set his heart upon having the oak tree cut down, and up on having a well sunk that would furnish his household with abundant water, and to anyone who could accomplish these two things he agreed to give the lovely princess for a wife and half his kingdom. It was a prize well worth working for, for the king was a noble one and the princess was beautiful beyond description.

It was Peter and Paul and Jack—three brothers—who set out in the hope of finding a way to cut down the tree and to dig the well.

It was Jack who first discovered the way to cut down the tree, and he was the first to do it. He heard a sound of chopping which he heard up the hill, side as the three brothers were setting out toward the palace, and following the sound he came upon a magic ax chopping away at a great tree, and this he put into his pocket.

And this same curiosity discovered to him a spade that could penetrate the hardest rock, and a stream of water which flowed uninterruptedly as it was led to do. The older brothers looked him for his curiosity but with the ax and the spade and the little stream he was able to fell the oak and to dig the well and to lift it to the top. And so he won the wonderful princess for his bride and he came into possession of half the kingdom while his brothers had their ears cut off and were sent to a desert island.

And of the story of the well, Jack wasn't so much out of his mind when he took to wondering.

There are a great many clever young people today—clever as Peter and Paul and Jack—and a good many of these clever ones are in college and would gladly find an easy way to do a little or to cut down oak trees, but they lack interest, they have no curiosity, they are not possessed with this wondering state of mind which led Jack to find the ax and the spade, and the trickling stream.

Sane Diet Vs. Vitamines

Chicago.—Well-balanced selection of foods is a sure means of supplying the body with health-giving vitamins than reliance on special foods supposed to contain these valuable properties, dietitians now assert. Our grandfathers never heard of vitamins, yet they were as sturdy physical specimens as the present generation. They ate foods which experience taught them were wholesome and nutritious. Countless ordinary foods contain vitamins which promote the growth of health and resistance to disease. These include green vegetables, tomatoes, egg yolks, liver, kidneys and other glandular organs, vegetable oils, butterfat, carrots, peas, beans, spinach, fresh fruits, milk, nuts, potatoes, and legumes. Margarine, because it is largely made up of finest animal or vegetable oils and milk, is a valuable source of vitamins. Same attention to diet, it is pointed out, will secure for the average person more than enough of any vitamin for satisfactory growth and health.

Beets Big Sugar Source

Chicago.—Beet sugar produced from beets grows on American farms is identical to the same in sweetness and power, therefore value and chemical reaction as cane sugar. Beet sugar may be used for every household purpose in which cane sugar is employed. Exhaustive tests by leading home economists have proved that cakes and pastries, jams, jellies, and preserves made with beet sugar are as good as those prepared with cane sugar. About one-sixth of all the sugar consumed in the United States annually comes from the nation's beet fields.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO.

Thursday, April 13, 1905
Clean out your yards and alleys and streets. Spring is here.

Mrs. Ragan, sister of Mrs. Insley, is an agreeable visitor in town.

Mrs. Amos is able to get out again after an illness of several weeks.

Miss Bertha Woodburn left Saturday to begin her school in Roscommon county.

Mrs. C. H. O'Neil and Miss Laura Lewis of Frederic were callers in town last Monday.

Miss Ethel Hoyt began her second term of school in the Horton district in Frederic last week.

H. L. Holbrook and C. F. Stewart, with their wives, left for the new home at Vassar yesterday.

Don't forget to say a good word for Grayling and Crawford county wherever you go. Keep the ball rolling.

The township board appointed Dr. J. Woodworth health officer for the ensuing year at their meeting Monday.

John Rasmussen has sold the old Grayling house corner of N. Michigan and the lots south of Burgess' saloon to R. Hanson.

Mrs. Kate Winnie, nee Miss Kate Woodfield, has moved back from Lake Nebagamon, Wis., to Michigan and is now a resident of Houghton.

Word is received from the University that Thomas W. Wakeley was operated upon April 1 and is doing nicely, so that he expects to be home this week.

A ten-pound baby came to life with Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Westcott, April 7, and the doctor is as happy as he can be, thinking he will soon have help in the office.

Messrs. Walter Sloan and Charles O'Brien of West Bay City have accepted positions in town and will give our ball team the benefit of their services as pitcher and catcher.

Supervisor J. J. Cullen is moving with his family at the lake this week. The ice is pretty well out, but enough remains to insure a cool breeze, and that is a virtue in a summer resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Hingley, who spent the winter in the southern part of the state, are home again, greatly pleased with their visit, but glad to be back again in the best town in Michigan.

MANY GREAT AMERICANS HAVE KNOWN WHAT IT MEANS TO SAVE PENNIES
(By W. S. Straus, President American Society for Thrift)

"He was compelled to go to work when nine years old. His first job was in a pottery works where he had to endure a daily roasting before a furnace. For this he was paid 50c a day. Later he earned 90c a day. He left this place to become bellboy in a nearby city."

This paragraph appeared recently in the obituary of a man who for a number of years had been the pre-dominant personality and executive head of one of the world's greatest hotel syndicates.

It is not necessary to embellish the story of E. M. Statler with the statement that he early learned the value of thrift, for without this advantage, he never could have risen from such an inauspicious beginning to become the head of a gigantic business organization.

Speaking from the standpoint of a business career no man can succeed who has not served an apprenticeship in thrift and learned to carry it into every transaction in which he is engaged.

There are thousands of successful men in business and in other walks of life whose rise from a humble beginning has been due to the fact that they at one time knew how to scrimp and save the pennies.

Frank W. Woolworth began life as a clerk in a store at Watertown, N. Y. Cyrus H. Curtis, Philadelphia publisher, started his career as a newsboy.

E. H. Harriman, earned his first money as a clerk in a broker's office. Andrew Carnegie began as a bobbin boy in a Pennsylvania cotton mill.

Charles M. Schwab was a clerk in a small store and later became state engineer for engineering work. John Wanamaker began his career as an errand boy. James J. Hill clerked in a steamship office. Henry Ford was originally a Detroit machinist.

Thomas Edison began selling newspapers on trains running out of the same city when twelve years old.

Learning to save pennies in the face of great hardships makes it possible later to save nickels, dimes and dollars.

Thrift's gift to any man is not so much the golden treasure of a bank balance as it is the golden treasure of a sturdy will and sound character.

Michigan.
Mr. Fred McKay of St. Ignace stopped here last week on his return from Cleveland, where he had been to buy some horses, for a visit with his mother and Mrs. Dr. Leighton, his sister.

Miss Nellie P. Blair of Litchfield, Mich., who has been with her cousin, Mrs. S. S. Claggett of Johannesburg, for the winter, was the guest of her god-mother and namesake, Mrs. O. Palmer, the first of the week, returning to her home yesterday.

Horward Peterson and Mrs. Olive Wilder were married at the Methodist parsonage on Monday evening, April 10, at 8:30. Rev. H. A. Sheldon officiated.

Mr. Peterson is a well-known and popular member of the band, playing the solo cornet.

David Flagg has his new forge and anvil in his repair shop on Peninsula avenue and is about ready for business.

Thur day, April 20, 1905
Miss Laura Nelson has returned to the Ferris Institute to complete her course.

Mrs. Chas. Trombley left Tuesday for a two weeks visit in Bay City and Grand Rapids.

Miss Anna Olson entertained four teen young ladies, last Saturday evening, in honor of her birthday.

Grayling is always well represented at the Ferris school at Big Rapids. Miss Minnie Nelson is the latest addition from here.

Peter E. Brown came home with his equipment yesterday from Chas. Silby's in Beaver Creek, whence he has been moving some buildings the past week.

Rev. H. A. Sheldon went to Higgins Lake, Tuesday, for the purpose of uniting in matrimony Mr. Henry Heiderman and Miss Martha Strubel.

Mrs. Sheldon and Miss Olive enjoyed the ride with him.

M. Ineson and G. L. Alexander will assist in erecting a fine two-story brick block on the site of the present offices this spring. The plans are nearly completed and work will begin at once. It will be occupied by the bank and Mr. Alexander's law offices on the first floor, and the offices of the new hardwood flooring factory and a suite of rooms for Superintendent Kerry of the upper floor.

COURAGE

THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"NOW be a brave boy," mother used to say to me when, in sending me to bed alone to the awful dark rooms above, she saw that my heart beat a little faster and that fear of something unexpected and unknown gripped me. "There's nothing up there to hurt you." And I went, not realizing that I feared, I was not a coward, but that I had courage, for courage consists in facing danger or supposed danger that you fear. Aristotle, one of the wisest men in the world, has said so.

"Courage," he tells us, "is not fearlessness, but the recognition of danger and the power of self-control in spite of fear."

The man who faces danger without fear is not courageous; he is foolhardy; his judgment is faulty.

After the famous mad woman's courageous attack on Robert Hood, I met many other men who were not men at all about it, though I had before such an account in the newspapers of what happened.

"If anyone who was in the awful carnage tells you that he had no fear," Martin wrote, "don't believe him for he is either not human or a liar. Every man knew when he went into the attack that he faced death, or, if not death, a torn, mangled body to be carried through a life that would be worse than death. As for myself, I was white and trembling for a time, and then my heart began beating like a triphammer, but, terrified as we were, we went on—and you know the result."

There was courage of the highest order—not fearlessness—but the recognition of awful danger, and the power to go on and meet it.

There was a fire in one of the apartment houses in town not long ago. Three little children were alone in one of the rooms, helpless and stupefied by the smoke. Their cries seemed hopeless when one of the young firemen forced his way through the flames, and succeeded in bringing them all down in safety. He realized his danger more even than the crowd did who stood at a safe distance and applauded his action. He had a family on his own at home, and he must have thought of his little boy and girl and the possibility of their being fatherless if he risked his life. Do you think he was not afraid? He could not have been otherwise, but he had courage in spite of fear.

Moral courage is not unlike physical courage. It is a genuine man's courage in the domain in which Blake lives with drinking and vulgar talk.

Come on, my, one of the fellows says to Blake, "and sit in with us."

He will be hanged if he says no, and Blake, like most young boys, is sensitive to ridicule. He fears the blues and the looks at his companions. They can tell him whippersnapper, but he has the courage to say no, and it does take courage in such instances.

60 PER CENT OF
WORLD'S PEOPLE
EAT NO BUTTER

American Table-Delicacy Unknown to More Than Billion in Other Nations.

Chicago—Sixty per cent of the population of the world, or 1,000,000,000 people do not use butter and a considerable per cent have never heard of it.

This doubtless will astonish persons familiar with the history of foods and accustomed to butter on the home table since infancy. Similar popular opinion prevails regarding the use of fine coffee, tea, and tobacco have been numbered among civilized nations.

The adoption of European meals and habits by Americans on this side of the Atlantic to these pleasant stimulants have been only a few hundred years. All the comforts and exact exploits of the ancient and modern world were achieved without them.

Butter as a spread for bread is used only in a comparatively small area of the earth, chiefly in northern Europe and America. In other parts of the world, such as India, Japan, China, and elsewhere, it is a delicacy.

In China, Japan, India and other nations of southern Asia, where rice is the staple food, no butter is used and the people are not acquainted with it. It is only in the recent years that it has been introduced into these countries.

Margarine has been an established article of diet in Europe and America since the reign of Napoleon III in France when Hippolyte Mege-Mouries developed the method of manufacturing it. It was at first considered a substitute for butter but now in several European countries butter is a substitute for margarine. In Denmark notably, one of the leading dairy countries of Europe, it is almost a universal

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

RICH PROFITS IN BEETS ON FARMS

Crop Made Into Sugar Nets Growers of United States $55,000,000 Last Year.

Chicago. — One hundred thousand farmers in the United States are engaged regularly in growing sugar beets to satisfy the nation's sweet tooth, according to a bulletin issued here by the U. S. Beet Sugar association.

More than $55,000,000 was paid to farmers for their sugar beets in 1927, says the bulletin. "Approximately 500,000 acres of land were devoted to sugar beet culture in 10 states, while there are 100 beet sugar factories in the United States in which $250,000,000 in capital is invested. Production of the sugar amounted to 1,070,000 tons for the year."

"Sugar beets are one of the most profitable of American crops and the farmers growing them are, in effect, partners in the beet sugar industry."

The beet sugar industry must establish its plants in farming communities, since it is essentially an agricultural industry depending on the farm for its product and because sugar beets cannot be shipped great distances without deterioration. "The sugar industry furnishes much more work to the farmer than any other crop, from the beet to the factory, but gives the farmer no more than a fair share of the profits."

"Raising sugar beets improves the soil and increases the yield of other crops. The beet grows best on a sandy soil, and the plant opens up the ground, enabling it to retain and utilize a greater supply of air and water. The roots frequently descend into the soil to a depth of seven or eight feet. The small roots remain in the ground after the beet is pulled and contribute valuable fertility to the farm soil."

"Beets are an important factor in crop rotation. Results in experimental crop rotation with beets as the pivot have demonstrated that the productivity of the soil in yielding crops M. S. C. To Stage First Chick Show can be increased from 50 to 80 per cent."

"By products, including beet tops, beet pulp and molasses, have developed an extensive sheep and cattle farming industry in the neighborhood of the beet sugar factories. In localities where white beet pulp was used as a food for steers in 1927, an investigation showed that while pulp made up 52 per cent of a combination ration, its actual price amounted to only 37 per cent of the total cost."

"Not every farming area in the United States may grow sugar beets. But the present sugar beet producing areas might be greatly expanded if farmers were assured adequate tariff protection, insuring them against the depression of foreign sugar produced under cheap labor conditions and living standards with which they cannot compete."

Only Clean Plowing Kills Corn Borers

East Lansing, May 1st.—Plowing to control the European corn borer must be done so cleanly that no corn-crop remnants will remain on the surface for the pest to find refuge in, Michigan State College entomologists state.

Plowing itself does not kill all of the corn borers in a corn field, the entomologists explain. Many of the borers come to the surface again after being plowed under in order to complete their life cycle. If there are no pieces of corn stalks or trash for them to crawl into, the borers soon die from exposure or are devoured by birds and other insects.

Tests performed by Ontario entomologists over a period of years have shown that clean plowing is an effective means of controlling the corn borer. In conducting these tests, an area 40 ft. long and 10 ft. wide has been plowed, and as many as 5,000 borers in stalks and stubble have been turned under. When the night was about to close, none was put over the plot. Not more than four corn-borer moths have been recovered in any one season.

Cleanliness and thoroughness in plowing operations are needed to control the borer in this manner, the entomologists state. Plowing must be done so that the stubble lies flat in the furrow and so that all trash is buried at least two inches deep. The use of wide-bottom plows is recommended.

Fall plowing Pays Soil Fitting Cost. East Lansing, May 1st.—Farmers who fall-plowed their land last year can get an increased tonnage of sugar beets, which will pay the costs of fitting the soil, according to statements by the farm crops department at Michigan State College.

Experimental work at the College has shown that fall-plowed land produces from one to one and a half tons per acre more than similar land placed in the spring.

Beets are grown under contract, and a fair price is assured the grower for the tonnage which he produces. Specialists at the College say that the beet crop situation is improved this year. A better class of labor than usual is available, and farmers in the beet areas are finding that the beet growers have not in buying, stilling and threshing.

Weather conditions at best harvest time have been bad for the past two years, but as beets are one crop which has a safe price that is known in advance of harvest time, it is expected that Michigan farmers will realize a normal increase of beets.

East Lansing, May 1st.—The first baby chick show ever held in the state, and the second one to be staged in the United States, will be held at M. S. C. May 4 and 10 under the supervision of the college poultry department. More than 200 entries are expected.

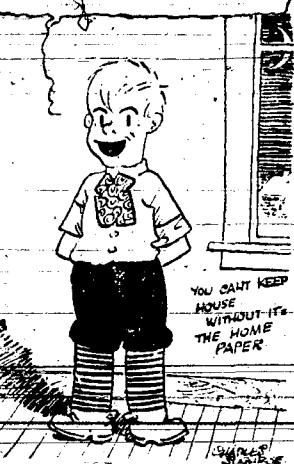

All hatcherymen and breeders are invited to enter 25 chicks of any recognized variety. Each exhibitor will be limited to two entries in any one class. The entries will be shown in chick boxes with glass tops.

Reese V. Hicks, managing director of the International Baby Chick Association of Kansas City, Missouri, will be the judge. Judging will be done on the basis of uniformity of size and color. Freedom from deformities and weight will be important factors. There will be no standard disqualifications.

There will be prizes for the first 10 places and a sweepstakes prize for each breed. In addition to the sweepstakes cup for the best entry in the show, this trophy will be donated by the Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association. The chicks will be sold at auction on the last day of the show, offering an opportunity for local buyers to obtain excellent breeding stock.

NEW YORK LETTER

A thrilling and heroic rescue was made by Patrolman Slavino of the New York police recently. The two lower floors of a three-story house were a mass of flames when Slavino arrived. Learning that there was somebody in the third floor room, he, with three other men, reached the third floor from an adjoining building, holding Slavino by the heels, the three men lowered him to a third floor window, through which the patrolman climbed. He found John Brice sleeping in the room and hoisted him out of the window, when the three men on the roof pulled him up. Slavino then swung himself up on to the roof, thus accomplishing a rescue that caused many a thrill to the on-lookers.

The recent death of Rodman Wana-maker, son of the late John Wana-maker, the great merchant, attracted attention to the inscription on the capstone of the Wana-maker Building:

"Let those who follow me continue to build with the plans of honor, the level of truth, and the square of integrity, education, courtesy and mutuality."

A simple and beautiful injunction which, if universally practiced, would solve most human problems.

An unusual and lovable character passed away in Greenwich Village, New York, recently. He was John S. Matthews, who for twenty years maintained a butcher shop in the district of struggling poets and artists. Many are the tales of John's generosity, and his little home was crowded with recipients of his bounty who wanted to honor the memory of their departed friend. It was told how when some of his hard-up artist customers showed reluctance to receive his generosity, John would pull a roll of bills from his pocket and reassure them by saying: "Money? I don't need money."

At a recent rehearsal of "The Three Musketeers," the latest Broadway success, a black cat crossed the stage in front of Florenz Ziegfeld, the well known theatrical producer. Ziegfeld, who is not at all superstitious, exclaimed: "Heavens, here I am opening on the 13th, and now a black cat crosses me. But I should worry. This show is in the bag." From present indications Ziegfeld has nothing to worry about.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of General Motors Corporation, recently was quoted as predicting that the time was coming when every workman would have a two days' holiday each week. Mr. Raskob said: "Electricity, coupled with the great inventive skill of man, will eventually bring this about."

Four years ago Mr. Raskob organized the Managers' Security Company composed of eighty executives and managers of General Motors. In accordance with Raskob's advice, they bought $33,000,000 worth of General Motors stock. This stock is now worth $250,000,000, and all of the eighty executives are millionaires.

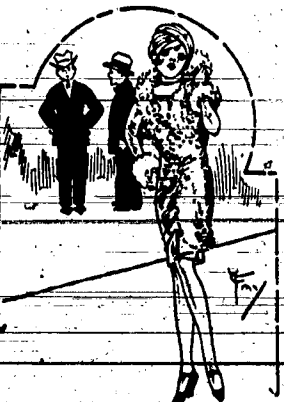

George Kern, Jr., a wealthy young New Yorker, has returned from Germany and announced that he had picked up three tiny "air taxis" in that country. Kern, with a companion, toured Europe in one of the tiny planes. The average cost of flying the plane during two months of air travel was three cents a mile, but Kern expects that with the lower cost of gasoline here, he can fly at a cost of about one cent a mile. The machine does fifty miles to a gallon of gas. It looks as though in another generation airplanes will be used as generally as automobiles are now.

Kardonek-Phillips, "Mayor of De-lancey Street," gave a nine-course dinner to 1,500 unemployed a few days since by the way of celebrating his fiftieth birthday. This unusual dinner was embellished with orchestral music and a speech by "His Honor." The good things he so generously provided were thoroughly enjoyed by his numerous guests.

A wealthy play producer, returning from Europe recently, engaged in a game of poker with some "genial" companions on an ocean liner. In the course of the game the theatrical man's pile was "accidentally" knocked over on to the floor. While stooping to pick them up a "fool deck" was rung in on the unsuspecting producer with the result that before the game was concluded he had "dropped" five thousand. The tricks of the card sharp are many and devious.

Cigar smoking by women is a growing habit among London clubwomen, and the members who limit their smoking to cigarettes are shocked thereat, while those with staid Victorian ideas condemn both. The feminine devotees of the cigarette insist upon their right to enjoy the solace of tobacco in their own way, but refuse to extend the same right to those who prefer cigars. "Not exactly a model of consistency."

Speed demands this better oil

Gone are the days when motorists were content to jog along at a moderate pace. Now, fine highways—white ribbons of concrete linking town to town—present an irresistible temptation to step on the gas and send the speedometer flying up.

Shell Motor Oil is competent to meet the strenuous demands of modern driving. Made from crude oils selected for their rich lubricating qualities—to specifications which provide an ample safety factor—by an improved process which avoids the destructive action of extreme heat—this oil has been scientifically refined to have just the right viscosity (body). It is thin enough to lubricate every whirling metal surface—thick enough to stand the gaff.

Shell Motor Oil—logical running mate for Shell Gasoline—is available at all Shell yellow-red service stations and Shell dealers in the correct grade for your car.

"Sweetest Job" in United States Held by Mary Virginia Bromberg

Washington, D. C.—Miss Mary Virginia Bromberg has the sweetest job in America. She has been made secretary of the newly formed Domestic Sugar Producers Association with headquarters here, which represents a combined yearly output of 2,350,000 tons of cane and beet sugar. She is the only woman executive in the organization which is composed of the U. S. Beet Sugar Association, American Sugar Cane League of Louisiana, Hawaiian Sugar Planters Association, and Association of Sugar Producers of Porto Rico. This country is producing about 1,000,000 tons of beet sugar annually which returns American farmers $55,000,000 for their beet crop.

A surprising change came about May 1st and the day turned out to be a very good day for trout fishing. There was some wind but otherwise the day was satisfactory. Quite a number of large fish were reported. Loraine Sparke so far holds the honors with a 22 inch rainbow, caught in the main stream. Ernest Borchor was back to town at 8:00 a. m. the first day with a fine large catch, included in which were an 18 and a 17 inch rainbow. Since Tuesday the weather has warmed up nicely and the sports should be satisfied in that respect.

The last of a series of bridge dinners was given by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bauman and Miss Bauman at Shoppingtons Inn on Friday evening with the ladies and gentlemen of their Bridge Club as guests. A very effective bowl of flowers, made up of pansies and sweetpeas graced the center of the long dinner table, while bouquets of sweet peas were placed at each end of the table. Five tables were filled for bridge at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson later in the evening. Mrs. C. G. Clippert and A. E. Mason were prize winners.

A couple of state police, sheriff Bobemoyer, Deputy Weaver and undersheriff May, made raids on 13 places in Frederic Saturday, and arrested Chip Ensign and James Pratt for violating the Volstead Act. This is Mr. Pratt's third offense. The men were brought to Grayling and will be tried at Federal Court in Bay City in the near future. Paddie Burke was also arrested for running a slot machine in his place of business and was brought to Grayling and tried in Justice Court. He plead guilty and paid a fine of $25 and costs.

Many of the school youngsters, both boys and girls, made the most of May first by taking the day off and going to the trout streams. Lunch baskets, some as large as family laundry baskets, were well filled with tackle and bait provided and with the family auto some of these youngsters broke into summer out-door life in real earnest. A few caught trout but all had a fine time. There weren't enough boys and girls in school to assemble on good sized class. Secretary Bates of the school board ordered the teachers to dismiss school for the day, and that was just the right thing to do under the circumstances.

Miss Durfee and Miss Adams accompanied the Misses Marguerite Warren and Marie Schmidt, and Edward and Frederic Mason to Boyne City Saturday where they took part in the Northwestern District short-hand and typewriting contest. Other towns that had student entries were Cheboygan, Boyne City, East Jordan, Petoskey and Charlevoix. Miss Warren and Frederic Mason were the two participants for first year typing while Miss Schmidt, the only advanced typist student from Grayling, won second place, with an average of 59.2 words per minute. Edward Mason was the only shorthand student from here. This is wonderful practice for students who are taking this work, and we are hoping that another year Grayling will be able to send a still larger delegation from its school to take part in the contest.
